

TWO FREIGHTS CRASH; CABOOSE CRUSHED BUT CREW IS UNHURT

Two non-regularly scheduled Western Maryland railroad trains collided just east of Gettysburg at 1:55 o'clock this morning, completely demolishing the caboose of one train, knocking an empty box car from the track and causing some damage to the front of an engine.

The only injury reported as a result of the wreck was a sprained ankle sustained by L. R. Faudler, Hagerstown, fireman on the engine which plowed into the caboose. He suffered the injury when he leaped from the locomotive before it hit the rear of the parked train.

First Wreck Here

Milton R. Tipton, local detective for the Western Maryland, said the train wreck was the first in his recollection to occur on the Western Maryland here.

Tipton said the first train was an extra, pulled by locomotive No. 1127, which had stopped here to leave off some cars and to add some before leaving for Hagerstown. It had stopped on the tracks just east of Gettysburg, opposite the Hartzell service station. Its caboose, a converted World War II troop car, was just east of the Hunterstown road crossing near the Central Chemical corporation plant.

Two Trains Leaped

The other train, pulled by locomotive No. 1120, was headed for Gettysburg with a load of ore to be transferred to the Reading line here.

Detective Tipton said he was told by the train crew of No. 1120 that they did not see the caboose of 1127 until they had rounded the curve near the Central Chemical plant, and were practically on the caboose. The engineer threw on the brakes and he and the fireman leaped from the cab just before the engine smashed into the rear of the train ahead. A brakeman who was in the engine remained there.

The red painted steel caboose, which was unoccupied, was completely smashed and thrown from the rails.

Car Damaged

The next car in line, an empty steel box car, was thrown across the track and dented about the end. The remainder of the train stayed on the track and was not damaged.

A wrecking crew from Hagerstown arrived this morning to put the box car back on its wheels.

R. J. Myers, Hagerstown, was conductor on No. 1127 and G. N. Shriver, Hagerstown, was conductor on No. 1120.

THANKS SERVICE AT ST. JAMES

The service at St. James Lutheran church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock will be centered around the thanksgiving theme. E. Jerome Alexis, one of the student assistants at St. James, will be the liturgist. Dr. Ralph R. Gresh, pastor, will occupy the pulpit and preach on the theme, "In Everything Give Thanks."

Prof. Richard B. Shade has arranged to have the men's chorus and the four choirs participate in the service. The men's chorus will sing "Prayer of Thanksgiving," a Netherlands Folk Song. The combined choirs will render two anthems, the first being "Come, Let Us Worship" by Palestrina and the second, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" by Martin Luther.

At 6:45 o'clock Sunday evening, Prof. Shade will present an organ recital. The numbers to be played include: "Now Thank We All Our God" by Sigfrid Karg-Elert; "Short Prelude and Fugue No. 4" by J. S. Bach; and "Magnificat in F Major" by Aloys Clausman.

The annual thank offering service, sponsored by the Women's Missionary society, the Women's Missionary Guild and the Virginia Bowers Missionary society, will be held Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The Rev. Wallace Fisher, member of the faculty of Gettysburg college, will be the guest preacher, speaking on the theme, "God's Unspeakeable Gift." Participating in the service will be Mrs. Gresh, Miss Margaret Howard, Mrs. Raymond F. Wieder and Dr. Gresh. Special music will be provided by the men's chorus and the four choirs. The anthems to be offered by the four choirs are: "Now the Day Is Over" by Joseph Barnby and "How Lovely Are Thy Dwelling" by J. Truman Wolcott with soprano solo by Sara Jane Grissinger.

TO INITIATE MONDAY

A formal initiation of new members will be conducted at the regular business meeting of the Auxiliary of the Albert J. Lentz post No. 202 of the American Legion Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Legion home.

Special Stamp Albums Given To Three Guests At Lincoln Fellowship Dinner In Hotel Gettysburg Friday Afternoon

Portfolios containing sheets of the Lincoln-Gettysburg three-cent postage stamp, which had its "first day of issue" in Gettysburg Friday, on the 85th anniversary of the Gettysburg Address and dedication of the National cemetery, were presented Friday afternoon at the Lincoln Fellowship exercises in the dining room of the Hotel Gettysburg to Henry E. Luhrs, Shippensburg, president of the fellowship, Senator Francis J. Myers, Philadelphia, master of ceremonies, and Oscar L. Chapman, undersecretary, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C., the principal speaker.

A number of distinguished guests who were in attendance at the annual luncheon of the fellowship were introduced, some speaking briefly. The luncheon, annual meeting and election of officers and cemetery exercises were combined in one program, with a brief intermission, because the inclement weather prevented out-of-doors exercises.

Distinguished Guests

Guests included David Willis Bridges, Baltimore, grandson, and Mrs. Stanley Zimmerman, Steelton, and Mrs. John Worthington, Bel Air, Md., granddaughters of the late Judge David Willis, at whose home in Gettysburg Lincoln was a guest for the dedication; Dr. Herbert Beck, Lancaster, professor emeritus of history at Franklin and Marshall college; David Rankin Barbee, Washington, D. C., historian; Dr. Percy Powell, librarian of the library of Congress; Burt Sheldon, secretary of the Lincoln Fellowship of Washington; Delmar Roth, in charge of the Freedom Train exhibits; Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh; Dr. I. D. Abt, superintendent of schools of Dauphin county; King Hostick, Lincoln group organizer, from Springfield, Ill., and Chicago; Mrs. Oscar L. Chapman, and P. J. Kammerer, Lincoln impersonator.

Re-elect Officers

At the business meeting which followed the luncheon and preceded the exercises, Henry E. Luhrs, president of the Lincoln Fellowship; John D. Lippy, Jr., vice president, and Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent of the Gettysburg National Park, secretary-treasurer, were re-elected.

The treasurer's report showed 172 members of the Fellowship, and a balance in the treasury prior to the 1948 annual meeting of $226.50.

Mr. Luhrs expressed his appreciation to Glenn Guise, Glenn C. Bream and Glenn L. Bream, who were to have furnished automobiles for the parade to the cemetery; to Col. Alfred E. McKenney and the

7,685 Persons Visit Train Friday Despite Heavy Rain

Despite an almost steady downpour which started Thursday night and continued through Friday, first day of public exhibition for the Freedom Train here, 7,685 men, women and children visited the train and inspected the 127 precious documents aboard yesterday.

"This is a little better than an average day's visitation to the train," one official told The Gettysburg Times today.

"Had favorable weather prevailed we feel sure that more than 10,000 persons would have visited the train on Friday," he added.

Long before the official 9 o'clock opening hour Friday morning, a long line of eager persons stood in a steady downpour awaiting their turn to enter the Train.

Scores of buses poured into Gettysburg from as far as 50 miles each jammed with school children anxious

Illinois Governor Sends Greetings To Train Group

Governor Dwight H. Green, Governor of Illinois where Lincoln spent the greater part of his life and where he gained early fame, unable to attend the exercises in connection with official start of the second tour of the Freedom Train, addressed the following communication to the Gettysburg and Adams County Freedom Train Committee:

"It is indeed fitting that, on the eighty-fifth anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's famous Gettysburg Address, people pause to dedicate themselves to the noble ideals set forth in that speech. We of the Lincoln State of Illinois join with you in reaffirming our faith in the highest principles which the Great Emancipator evidenced throughout his life.

Scouts Plan Party For Welfare Fund

Boy Scout troop No. 78 of St. Francis Xavier church will hold a bingo party Tuesday night, November 23, in the basement of the parochial school for the benefit of their welfare fund.

Turkeys will be offered and a major award will be given. The bingo prizes will be foods and canned goods and kitchen ware. Refreshments will be served at intermission.

'OPEN HOUSE' AT ARENDTSTOWN BANK MONDAY

The National Bank of Arendtstown, which began remodeling its building last April, has completed the work, and on Monday night will hold "open house" between 7 and 10 o'clock, inviting its customers and others to see what has been accomplished. Refreshments will be served.

Remodeling has doubled the size of the bank's quarters. The new lobby and main banking room is not only larger, but has been completely redecorated. Its walls are of green, and counters and other woodwork walnut or walnut finish. Like other rooms in the new bank, the main banking room has an acoustic ceiling, new type fluorescent lighting fixtures and cork linoleum flooring.

The cashier's office is at one end of the main room and the assistant cashier's at the other, with space for general banking business between.

Have "Community Room"

Directly behind the main room is the bookkeeping department and behind the cashier's office the board room. Both have been "astefully furnished in green, with burgundy drapes. The board room also has an acoustic ceiling and double walls, making it entirely sound-proof.

A new vault, in addition to the large main vault, has been built adjacent to the bookkeeping department. Micro-film equipment has been installed and all checks, deposit slips and other papers will be filmed, so that copies may be had, even though the original forms are lost or destroyed.

In the basement the bank has built a community room, open to use by Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, firemen, home economics classes, church organizations and others. The room is approximately 30 by 34 feet and has a large and modernly equipped kitchen adjoining it.

Is Air Conditioned

Tables and chairs and dinner service for 156 persons is provided. The legs are removable from the tables and chairs can be folded so that all may be stored and the room

Claims Truck Intentionally Abandoned Here

Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster today was seeking a large tow truck with which to remove a huge tractor-trailer vehicle which had been "intentionally abandoned for advertising purposes" near the intersection of Chambersburg street, Buford and Springs avenue since Wednesday evening.

Harpster said the vehicle was abandoned near the Freedom Train site for "advertising purposes." It is used to distribute beer in this locality.

"I was under the impression that the vehicle had broken down and would be removed," Harpster said. "Later I was 'tipped off' that the vehicle was 'intentionally abandoned' to advertise the beer before the large crowds expected to view the Freedom Train.

"When I contacted the local distributor which receives the product here I was told to go ahead and move it if I could. We do not have tow trucks large enough to move the machine. The cab is locked and the wheels are 'braked' to prevent towing. I am going to file charges against the operator of the truck."

The truck is owned by a Hanover firm.

COMPLETES TRAINING

Jay D. Johnson, 104 Baltimore street, has completed a week's intensive training at a tax and business seminar conducted by the Equitable Life Insurance company in Harrisburg. He is a local representative of the company. The school was held for 60 representatives of the Central Pennsylvania area.

PAYS SPEEDING FINE

Claude L. Crawford, Hagerstown, Md., paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder Friday evening on a charge of speeding. He was arrested by state police of the Gettysburg sub-station.

EXTRA SESSION OF MART HERE ON WEDNESDAY

The Farmers market showed few changes today. Plans were being made for the "big" market day next Wednesday, November 24, the day before Thanksgiving.

There was a good supply of pork on hand today, with prices unchanged. Loin was 90 cents a pound; roast ham, 70 cents a pound; sausage, 65 cents a pound; neck roast, 55 cents a pound; shoulder roast, 65 cents a pound; backbone, 50 cents a pound; ribs, 45 cents a pound; liver, 50 cents a pound; side meat, 55 cents a pound.

Lard was 28 cents a pound, scrapie, 25 cents a pound and pudding, 50 cents a pound. Butter remained unchanged at 75 and 80 cents a pound.

Dressed Rabbits Sold

Eggs showed little or no change today. Large whites brought 75 to 80 cents a dozen; medium, 60 cents a dozen. Dressed ducks were 60 cents a pound. Chickens were 65 and 70 cents a pound, roasters bringing 65 cents and fryers and capons 70 cents.

Dressed rabbits were offered for sale on the market today for 65 cents a pound.

Turnips were ten and 15 cents a box; endive, ten cents a stalk; water cress 15 cents a box; pumpkins, ten cents to 40 cents each, depending upon size, and squash, ten to 25 cents each. Potatoes sold for $2 a bushel, with sweet potatoes bringing 20 cents a box.

Apples Are $4

The price of apples remained the same, with Staymens and other scarcer varieties bringing top price of $4 a bushel. Others were from $2.50 to $3.50 per bushel.

Sweet cider was 65 cents a gallon and apple butter 60 cents for a 28-ounce jar. Home-made candy, a feature of the market from now until Christmas, was priced at 80 cents a pound.

Potato salad was 20 cents a pint; sweet cream, 35 cents a pint and cottage cheese, 20 cents a pint. Hickory nut kernels were for sale for $1.40 per pound.

DR. PUGH WILL PREACH SUNDAY

Dr. William Barrow Pugh, stated clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. for the last 10 years, will be the Methodist-Presbyterian Sunday Evening Hour speaker this week. The service will be held in the Methodist church at 7 o'clock.

DR. W. B. PUGH

The stated clerk is the permanent official representative of the General Assembly and holds the highest executive office in the Presbyterian church.

As secretary to the western section of the World Alliance of Presbyterian and Reformed Churches, he had an important role in the world conference of those churches at Geneva last August. Last year he assisted in the organization of a General Assembly for the Presbyterians of Mexico.

In 1945 Dr. Pugh made a trip around the world as chairman of the General Commission on Army and Navy Chaplains and received the Medal of Merit from Secretary of War Robert Patterson. He has been a member of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches for the last 16 years. In World War I he was a chaplain with the 28th Division in the Meuse Argonne and for 20 years after the war was a chaplain for the Pennsylvania National Guard.

Dr. Pugh, born in Utica, N. Y., in 1889, he is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Princeton Theological seminary.

Chapman Renews Lincoln's Pledge To Nation's Heroes

Pointing out that autumn rains fell on fresh graves at Gettysburg Friday as they did in the fall of 1863, Undersecretary Oscar L. Chapman, Under Secretary of the Interior, declared in an address before the Lincoln Fellowship Friday afternoon at the Hotel Gettysburg:

"We come to the shrine at Gettysburg and pledge anew that high resolve of Lincoln's—these dead shall not have died in vain."

The complete text of Mr. Chapman's address, originally scheduled for delivery in the National cemetery but given at the hotel because of the rain, follows:

Eighty-five years ago this afternoon near this spot Abraham Lincoln delivered a brief address which ranks with the noblest utterances of man, and which has since lifted and inspired not only the people of the United States, but lovers of freedom the world over.

It was not by accident that Lincoln chose Gettysburg as a proper place to make public his great spiritual appeal for the preservation of freedom, since he believed that the battle whose dead he commemorated was most surely a turning point in the great conflict which then tore the Sates and people of the United States asunder. In his prophetic vision, he often sensed that which evaded others. For this reason we do not measure Lincoln's greatness by his inspired ability to express sublime thoughts in simple language, for he would still be great if his messages were left unwritten and unspoken. We are, however, grateful, and I should think that so long as man love freedom that they shall continue to be grateful, for Lincoln's surpassing gift for expressing the hopes of mankind.

Lincoln's oratory is the symbol of his greatness. As such it is known everywhere. One night, during the early days of the recent war, when elaborate measures were being taken to safeguard the artistic treasures of Washington from sabotage, a guard observed lights moving about the Lincoln Memorial. Investigating, the guard discovered two Australian soldiers standing in the darkness with their flashlights playing on the wall. They were reading the Second Inaugural address and those immortal words whose utterance here we commemorate today. These soldiers, perhaps en route to battle, explained that with only a few hours in Washington they wanted

FIRST NATIONAL CONGRATULATED BY STATE CHIEF

The First National bank of Gettysburg Friday evening received the congratulations of State Secretary of Banking D. Emmert Brumbaugh, on the basis of comparisons with other banks of the state and nation.

Secretary Brumbaugh spoke at the 22nd annual dinner meeting of the bank's stockholders at the Hotel Gettysburg. The affair was the largest in the bank's history with 215 stockholders, officials, employees and guests present. A roast turkey dinner was served.

As the basis for his complimentary remarks about the First National, Secretary Brumbaugh pointed out that for the three-year period from 1945-1947 the First National's average net profit was 32.4 per cent as compared with the national average of 28.4 per cent for all member banks in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Operating Costs Up

The speaker called attention to the higher cost of banking operations and the small returns from closely regulated investments and warned that "unless there is a change in money rates, less rather than more dividends are in prospect in years ahead. The banker has been the whipping boy for the national government for a good many years now," he asserted, "and unless the growth of regulations and governmental interference does not abate, it can end only in nationalization."

President Edmund W. Thomas was master of ceremonies and the Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman, Western Pennsylvania Synod president for the Lutheran church, gave the invocation.

Taking notice of the Lincoln anniversary, President Thomas called upon Burgess C. A. Heiges to read the Gettysburg Address.

Bankers' Counsel Speaks

First speaker was D. J. Needham, Washington, D. C., general counsel for the American Bankers Association, who discussed the banking business from the point of view of the public, stockholder, director,

TWO SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR LOCAL ROBBERY

Earl Richardson, Carlisle street extended, and James R. Cullison, Fairfield R. D., were sentenced to from 18 months to three years each in the Eastern penitentiary this morning in the Adams county court on charges of robbery by assault and force. They were also ordered to pay the costs and make restitution to Charles Smith, Lincolnway east, from whom they were found guilty by a jury of stealing more than $100.

Ray Warren, of North Stratton street, who appeared before the court on a serious charge, was sentenced to an indeterminate term at White Hill.

Charles Weaver, Spring Grove, who was carried into court on a chair, due to a physical condition which apparently become progressively worse since he was placed in jail on three charges of burglary, was placed on parole for three years, ordered to pay the costs, make restitution and enter a veterans' hospital.

Others Sentenced

Raymond Lawrence, 530 West Middle street, who plead guilty to a charge of operating an auto after his driver's license had been suspended, was given a suspended sentence, placed on probation for one year, ordered to pay $150 for the use of the county, and ordered to pay the costs.

Harry McClell, Fairfield, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny of $10, was sentenced to three to six months in the Adams county jail and ordered to pay the costs and make restitution.

Dibert Starnes, York Springs R. D., was sentenced to from nine to 18 months on a charge of being an accessory after the fact. The court told Starnes that in permitting a person guilty of armed robbery to stay at his home, had made himself guilty of the same charge as the robber. The court said the maximum sentence for armed robbery is 15 years but that it gave Starnes the shorter sentence because it believed he gave the criminal protection through ignorance. Starnes was also given a sentence of three months on a morals charge with that sentence to run concurrent with the other.

Gets Jail Sentence

Edith M. Laughman, Hanover R. 3, was sentenced to pay $100 fine and costs on a morals charge.

Edna E. Miller, Hanover R. 3, was given a suspended sentence on a morals charge and ordered to pay the costs.

Edward Anthony, Hanover R. 3, who had pleaded guilty to a morals charge, was ordered to pay $45 lying-in expenses, $5 a week for support of the child and the costs, and to

STAMP SALE IS 881,141

The big rush for Lincoln-Gettysburg commemorative stamps, and "first day of issue" covers at the Gettysburg post office is over, but there is still business for the cover vendors who set up their stands on the court house steps. Many who did not get their stamps Friday were trekking to the post office today.

In the basement of the post office, today was a continuance of every previous day this week, with dozens of men and women, especially employed to process the first day covers still busy at work, and thousands of the cachets still left to be cancelled and mailed.

Postmaster Lawrence E. Oyler said this morning that a total of 881,141 of the special stamps have been sold through the local post office. This includes sheets of the stamps, singles and blocks of four, and the stamps used for the first day covers.

The meters on the two special cancelling machines in the basement added up to 256,400 first day covers cancelled thus far, with thousands more to be run through the cancelling machines.

Dr. Gifford To Speak To County Teachers

Dr. Roy W. Gifford, associate surgeon at the Warner hospital here will speak on the "Past, Present and Future of Medicine" Tuesday evening at the annual fall banquet of the Adams County Branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

The dinner session, starting at 7 o'clock, will be held in the parish house of St. John's church, Abbottstown. Another feature of the program will be vocal solos by Miss Regina Mummert, New Oxford high school student.

All teachers in the county are urged to attend. Arthur Gordon, president of the county chapter said today. Reservations can be made by notifying Mrs. Vivian Hamm at New Oxford.

St. Ignatius NCCW Conducts Meeting

St. Ignatius parish council of Catholic Women met recently in the parish rectory with Mrs. Cecelia Dougherty as hostess. The meeting was opened with prayer to Our Lady of Good Counsel by the pastor, the Rev. Fr. Louis J. Yeager, followed by the salute to the flag. The meeting was in charge of the president, Miss Catherine E. Miller.

Reports were given by the various members who attended the deanery institute at the Delone high school sponsored by the Harrisburg Diocesan Council. It was stated that the birthday party for the boys at Paradise will be held December 15. These parties are sponsored annually by the Conewago Deanery. It was announced by the pastor that the annual turkey supper will be held in the parish hall December 11.

After all business was transacted, Fr. Yeager read excerpts on Buchanan Valley from the history of Cumberland and Adams county. It revealed that the Valley was originally called Pleasant Valley and that it was during the presidential campaign of President Buchanan that the name was changed to Buchanan Valley. The valley is six miles in length and two miles wide. The first inhabitants settled in 1734. The church was built in 1817. Progress seemed to come rapidly by the erection of a saw mill in 1763. The first school opened in 1790. In 1824 a grist mill was in operation. In 1851 a store was opened. In 1886 a post office was opened. Pictures of the church from the early days to the present time were shown by Father Yeager.

The meeting closed with prayer and refreshments were served by the hostess. The time and place of the next meeting will be announced later.

Re-decoration Of Church Underway

Redecoration of the auditorium of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church has been started by Roth Brothers of York with regular Sunday morning services to be held in the Church school building for the next several Sundays.

Scaffolding has been erected in the auditorium for the work which will include repainting the interior, refurnishing floors and pews, new carpet and new light fixtures.

The guest preacher for Sunday morning will be the Rev. Clyde Brown of Blair Mills, Pa., who preached here last Sunday. Methodist-Presbyterian Sunday Evening Hour services will be held in the Methodist church.

Student To Speak At Fairfield Service

The annual Thank-Offering service of the Women's Missionary society of Zion Lutheran church, Fairfield, will be held at the regular service Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

A formal service issued by the General society of the United Lutheran Church in America will be used. Mrs. David Sanders, society president, will preside.

Fuad Nucho, a student at the Lutheran Theological seminary, will be the speaker. Mr. Nucho was educated in the Schneller orphanage, Jerusalem, where he was later organist and choir master as well as director of athletics. He is in America completing his education preparatory to returning to the Orient to work among the Arabs.

PLAN LADIES

Gettysburg Lions will be hosts to their ladies Monday evening at a dinner meeting at the Reformed church at 6:30 p. m. "The Flame Throwers," a quartet from the Grantley Fire company, of York, will provide part of the entertainment program.

Corn sugars are made for food processors, leather tanners, rayon producers, caramel color burners, and bakers.

"Abe For A Day" Had His Troubles

Attorney Donald M. Swope, chairman of the Gettysburg and Adams County Freedom Train Committee, who did a masterful impersonation of Abraham Lincoln and recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address at exercises in the Majestic theatre Friday morning, had his full share of troubles and worries.

Early Friday morning his woes were climaxed. He described them to his friends as follows: "I put on the Lincoln suit early Friday morning. It was far too large. My wife was pinning it here and there, turning up a trouser leg and what not. The phone started ringing, the baby started to cry and then my mother walked in and congratulated my wife on her birthday anniversary. . . I had completely forgotten about it."

Young Prizefighter Is Shot To Death

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Nicholas Zangara, 22-year-old middleweight prize fighter, was shot and killed early today as he sat in the back room of a Bronx store playing cards, police reported.

Zangara was seated at a table with several other men, police said, when shortly before dawn an unidentified man entered a rear door, and fired two shots, one of them hitting the boxer in the left temple. The intruder fled.

Zangara, of the Bronx, was a club fighter in the Bronx-Westchester area. Police said he was killed by a .38 caliber slug.

Carmine DeRoma, operator of the Bronx candy store where the shooting occurred, told police the other card players hurriedly left the scene after the slaying.

Police were seeking them for questioning.

Miss Reba Yoe, daughter of Curtis Yoe, Hanover, and Richard Wherley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen R. Wherley, Hanover R. D. 4, were married November 12 in the Grace Lutheran church, Westminster, Md. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Elwood S. Falkenstein. They were unattended. The bride is employed at the Heuser Cigar factory and the bridegroom is employed by the Western Maryland railroad. They will reside near East Berlin.

Zepp—Moore

Miss Jan Moore, daughter of Mrs. F. Carl Moore, New York city, and William J. Zepp, Jr., son of Mrs. William J. Zepp, York Springs R. D. 2, were married at noon Sunday, November 7, in the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, Fifth avenue and 48th street, New York city. Dr. I. Frederic Derg performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. After a trip to Washington, D. C., the couple will return to New York city, where Mr. Zepp is employed as a Constellation co-pilot by Eastern Airlines.

DEATHS

Robert M. Reary

Robert M. Reary, 77, of Harrisburg, died Friday morning at the home of his son, Arthur R. Reary, Boyertown. He was a native of Biglerville, where he was a fruit farmer and carpenter until 20 years ago, when he went to work with his son at the R. and R. Pretzel company in Reading.

He was the son of the late Wesley and Hannah Cashman Reary. His first wife, the former Lillie Raf-fensperger, died in 1927.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Line Reary; three children by his first wife, Mrs. Edgar Sandoe, Osprey, Fla., and Mrs. Maurice Miller, Harrisburg, a son, Arthur; two grandchildren; three great-grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Minnich and Mrs. Margaret Howe, both of Gettysburg.

Funeral services Monday at 2 p. m., from the Biglerville Evangelical United Brethren church conducted by the Rev. Laverne Rohrbach. Interment in the Biglerville cemetery.

Raymond H. White

Raymond H. White, 56, Vineland, N. J., died at the Lankenau hospital, Philadelphia, Thursday evening at 5:15 o'clock after an illness of six weeks.

Mr. White attended Gettysburg college prior to World War I. He graduated from Rutgers university, Brunswick, N. J., and taught in the schools of New Jersey for a number of years. For the past few years he served as an accountant for several Vineland firms. Mr. White was a member of the First Methodist church, Vineland.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Mindelle Grinder, of Gettysburg; two sons, Harold and Kenneth, at home; one daughter, Mrs. Edwin Hennessy, and one grandchild. Funeral services Sunday afternoon in Vineland.

MAN WHO HEARD LINCOLN HURT

Edward Trostle, 89, of 31 West Middle street, one of Gettysburg's oldest residents and one of the very few remaining persons who heard Abraham Lincoln speak at the dedication of the Gettysburg National cemetery 85 years ago, is in the Warner hospital with a fractured right hip, suffered when he was struck by an automobile at Baltimore and Middle streets at 9 o'clock Friday night.

Mr. Trostle was returning to his home after spending the early part of the evening at the Elks home on York street, and was crossing Baltimore street from the east side to the west. He was struck by an automobile driven by Ulrich Mecke, 505 Main street, McSherrystown, which was turning into Baltimore street from Middle street.

Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster said that it was raining hard at the time of the accident, visibility was poor, and Mecke was unable to see Mr. Trostle, who was dressed in dark clothing.

Passersby assisted the aged man, and placed him in the ambulance for removal to the hospital.

WINDS GROUND ORE FREIGHTER

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 20 (P) — The 11,900-ton Great Lakes freighter Robert Hobson, carrying a crew of 33, was blown aground last night at the entry to the Duluth-Superior harbor.

The Coast Guard station in Duluth reported the iron ore carrier was whipped out of control at the height of a northeaster lashing Lake Superior. The wind was blowing at 68 miles an hour.

The Hobson, inbound, struck the concrete breakwater, then went aground in shallows off a sandy beach. Seacocks were opened in order to keep her firmly on the bottom. The 580-foot vessel partly blocked the entry.

A coastguard lifeboat went to the scene but, finding the vessel in no great danger, permitted the crew to remain aboard.

The Hobson is owned by the Interlake Steamship Co., a subsidiary of Pickands Mather & Co. of Cleveland.

Inside the harbor, the unmanned excursion steamer Wayne broke her moorings and was blown into dock pilings a half mile away. She was still stuck fast today and apparently was damaged considerably.

Two Injured In Trailer Accident

Alice Hargraves, 72, Dedham, Mass., and Clifford F. Burns, Wrentham, Mass., are patients at the Warner hospital as a result of injuries received when a house trailer and car jack-knifed at Heildersburg Friday.

The woman sustained a mild cerebral concussion, contusions of the nose, possible fracture of the lower portion of the spine and contusions of the lip. Burns received a fractured jaw.

Mark E. Stock, Jr., 26 Carlisle street; Roger Blanchard, Tawentown, and Janet Carpenter, Westminster, submitted to operations this morning for the removal of their tonsils.

Other admissions included: Anna M. Sanders, 34 South Washington street, and Kenneth Munna, Rocky Ridge, Md. Those discharged were Mrs. Lynn Freed and infant son, of Biglerville; Mrs. Clement Sneeringer and infant son, of Littlestown; Mrs. Leroy Fleming and infant son, of Gettysburg R. 3; Norman Burrier, Rocky Ridge, Md.; Martha Clapsiedle, Orrtanna, and Mary Griest, Flora Dale.

KANSAS BURIED IN DEEP SNOW

Kansas City, Nov. 20 (AP) — Plainsmen in three states today were cutting through deep snowdrifts to rescue stranded travelers and livestock.

Winter's first swoop across eastern Colorado, southwestern Nebraska and western Kansas had ridged the land with drifts from three to 20 feet deep. Trains, buses and motor cars were stalled. Telephone and power lines were down, and many communities isolated.

One death was reported. A 15-year-old girl died at Hutchinson, Kas., of diabetes when drifts blocked efforts to get her to a hospital.

Lack of severe cold lessened the hardships.

Trains on the Santa Fe, Union Pacific, and Rock Island lines were moving slowly today as snowplows rammed the tracks clear. Some trains were delayed as much as 20 hours Friday.

National guardsmen in Kansas, using half-track vehicles, were hauling stranded motorists to shelter. Two airplane pilots, flying separate routes from Kansas City to Denver late yesterday, reported seeing more than 200 motor cars stalled near the Kansas-Colorado border. They saw no distress signals, however.

Farmers still were having difficulty reaching outlying flocks of sheep and herds of cattle. Sheep losses were expected to be heavy.

Upper Communities

The Good Hope Adult 4-H club met this week at the home of Mrs. David C. May, Gettysburg R. D., with Miss Mary Jane Mickey, county home economics extension representative, in charge. In line with its present project of fabric painting, the group worked on tea towels, handkerchiefs and place mats. Mrs. Emory Gift and Mrs. Vernon Snyder, of the Littlestown group, were guests. The next meeting will be held December 16 with Mrs. Coffman Shenk at which time Christmas cookies and candles will be made.

Miss Joyce Keller, Philadelphia, is spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Keller, Bendersville.

Capacity crowds attended the presentation of "Home, Sweet, Home," a three-act mystery comedy, at Arendtsville Thursday evening and Biglerville Friday evening. The comedy was presented by Biglerville high school students. Mrs. Louise Shugars and Mrs. Arlene Hunter, faculty members, directed the play. Between acts selections were given by a girls' sextet, members of which included the Misses Janet Baltzley, Joan Coble, Doris Coulson, Eleanor Coulson, Joan Enck and Margaret Yost, accompanied at the piano by Miss Dolores Clapsaddle; and by an octet of boys, Ronald Alwine, Fred Garretson, Paul Gelwick, Clark Heller, Donald Hollabaugh, Dale Hoffman, Paul Shue and Owen Taylor, with accompaniments by Miss Eleanor Coulson.

A pack meeting and charter presentation program of Cub Scout Pack 71, Biglerville, will be held in the Biglerville auditorium Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Dr. O. D. Coble, pastor of the Bendersville Lutheran parish; introductory remarks, Dean W. T. Tilberg, of Gettysburg college; presentation of charter, Prof. C. I. Raffensperger, local counsel representative and member of Organization and Extension committee; presentation of Cubmaster and assistant Cubmaster certificates, D. M. Dickson, council executive, York-Adams area; presentation of den mothers and den mothers' certificates, by Clair Shillito, chairman of the local pack committee. S. A. Ehlman, Scoutmaster, will present the den chiefs. A film entitled, "The Trail of Citizenship," will be shown.

Francis Coulson and John C. Brown are Cubmaster and assistant Cubmaster, respectively. The Cub committee includes Clair Shillito, P. R. Ditzler, G. A. Eckenrode, Elmer R. Hoke and Frank N. Hewelson. The public is invited to attend.

enter into a bond on his own recognition for $500.

Charles J. Dillon, Biglerville, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, ordered to pay $50 for the use of the county and the costs.

Berman Beamer, Arendtsville, who had pleaded nolle contendere on a charge of obstructing an officer, was given a suspended sentence, placed on probation for one year, and ordered to report weekly to the probation officer. He was warned "that the first time you get into difficulty you will be sent back to jail on the charge."

Harrison Runkle, Gettysburg, who had pleaded guilty to a larceny charge, was sentenced to from 30 days to three months, and was ordered to pay the costs.

Russell N. Sanders, Iron Springs, R. D., was sentenced to 30 days and ordered to pay the costs on a charge of operating an auto while his operator's license was suspended.

Robert G. Miller, Gettysburg R. 3, charged with hit and run driving, was given a suspended sentence on the condition that he pay $50 for the use of the county and the costs. He was told that his license will be revoked and that the court did not want to see him back before it again.

Merl Lebo, Carlisle R. 6, appeared before the court for sentence on two morals charges. In one case he was sentenced to nine months in jail and ordered to pay living-in expenses of $111 and ordered to pay $5 per week from September 1 for the support of the child, ordered to pay the bond for $500 with security to guarantee the payment of the amount.

On the other charge he was sentenced to nine months in jail to run concurrent with the other sentence and ordered to pay $100 living-in expenses and $5 per week for support of the child beginning October 14 and enter into a bond for $500 with surety to guarantee payment.

Paul J. Brantner, Orrtanna R. 2, charged with larceny, was sentenced to not less than 30 days nor more than six months and ordered to pay the costs and make restitution.

The New Oxford community fire company applied for a charter as a non-profit organization.

Harvey Gastley, Gettysburg, who had been sentenced in April to nine months in the county jail for contributing to the delinquency of a minor, asked for a parole but was refused. The court said that at tempts he had made while at the jail to get in touch with the girl proved that he had not learned his lesson.

James L. Kane, Hanover, who had asked for parole after serving part of a sentence on a morals charge, was also turned down by the court.

Special Stamp

briefly, Congressman-elect James Lind, of York, was introduced. Tribute was paid by President Luhrs to Senator Myers, whom he called the prime mover in obtaining the commemorative stamp for Gettysburg.

Senator Myers was the principal speaker at the luncheon and Mr. Chapman at the exercises in the hotel which were to have been held in the cemetery. The addresses are printed in full elsewhere in the Gettysburg Times.

Address Is Sung

The program was concluded with the singing of the Gettysburg Address by Reginald Dunkinson, accompanied by Robert Rau.

The music was written by George Mysells, New York composer, and it was the first time that it had been sung to this music in public. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Harold V. March, pastor of the United Brethren church.

Following the ceremonies at the hotel, wreaths were placed on graves of unknown soldiers in the National cemetery by Mr. Bridges and Mr. Kammerer. There was no public ceremony in the cemetery because of the rain, only a few members of the Lincoln Fellowship going to the cemetery with Mr. Bridges and Mr. Kammerer.

Two Receptions

The organist, Mrs. George Eberhart, played selections by Carlo Ros-sini for the procession and recessional. During the mass "Panis Angelicus" was played. The communion hymn was "O Lord I Am Not Worthy."

Mrs. Goulden graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1946 and is employed as bookkeeper at the Hankey and Plank garage, York street. Mr. Goulden graduated from Gettysburg high school in the same year and is owner and operator of Leo's Service Station, Lincolnway east.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the bride's home for the immediate families. A two-tier bridal cake with a miniature bridegroom and bride formed the centerpiece of the table. In the afternoon another reception was held at the home of the bridegroom after which the couple left on a week's wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside along the Emmitsburg road.

CHOIR MEMBERS

their return, they will reside at 2816 White avenue, Baltimore 14, Md.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's high school, Emmitsburg, and attended Pennsylvania State college and Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia. She is employed as X-ray and laboratory technician by Dr. Sol Smith. The bridegroom was graduated from Towson high school, Towson, Md., and graduated from Pennsylvania State college in the class of 1947. He is employed at Western Electric company, Baltimore.

Catches Own Pass And Runs For Score

Albany, Ore., Nov. 20 (AP) — Ever hear of a halfback who caught his own punt and ran to a touchdown? Jimmy Jenks did it for Albany high school here last night in a state quarter-final football game.

Jenks punted from his own 22-yard line, and a charging Grants Pass line blocked the ball. It bounded back into Jenks' hands. He circled the linemen and ran 78 yards to score.

It was all to no avail. Grants Pass recovered from this blow and won, 13-7.

LEGION PICKS PHILA.

Indianapolis, Nov. 20 (AP)—The American Legion will return to Philadelphia where it met in 1926 for its annual convention next year. The Legion's executive committee announced yesterday it had turned down bids from Miami, the 1948 convention city, and New York in favor of Philadelphia. The convention will be held Aug. 29-Sept. 1 with a parade on Aug. 30.

PARKED CAR HIT

An automobile belonging to Melvin Oyler, 73 Main street, McSherrystown, was damaged when it was struck by another car while parked in front of the Oyler home Friday morning at 6:45 o'clock. Damage was estimated at $25. Chief of Police Manard Masemer, McSherrystown, was told by a witness of the accident that the other car, a black Ford sedan, did not stop after it sideswiped the Oyler machine. Masemer believes that the right side of the hit-run car may have been damaged.

ANZENGRUBER HEADS TOWN CAGE LEAGUE

Formation of a senior community basketball league was announced today by the Gettysburg Recreation Association. The teams will play at the high school here.

Paul "Bud" Anzengruber, York street, has been named as president of the loop with Luther Sachs, Jr., as secretary and John W. Roth, treasurer.

Six teams have so far announced plans to take part in league competition, the associated office said, and added that all persons who are interested in playing basketball in the loop are to write to box 81, Gettysburg, Pa.

In order to make it possible for as many to play as possible, those who write in will be either added to the rosters of the present teams, or if there are sufficient applications, additional teams will be formed. Better players will go into the senior league, while those who are not too certain of their skill will be given the opportunity of entering teams in a proposed junior league.

The senior league teams and their managers include, Texas Lunch, Luther Sachs, Jr.; Veterans of Foreign Wars, John W. Roth; the former Greenmount team which is planning to operate under a new name, Jacob Rudisill; Moose, Reginald Dunkinson; Lentz Legion, Paul Anzengruber; Stanton Legion, Eugene Timbers.

Those who may wish to join any of those teams are asked to contact the managers to determine whether there are any openings remaining. If there are not the names will be, if the players wish, added to the lists from which other teams are to be formed.

Membership on the teams is limited to residents of the Gettysburg area (including persons who may maintain homes here but work away from town part or all of the week) who are out of high school, or who are high school students but have reached the age of 19. The latter provision was placed in the rules to permit several high school students who have gotten beyond the age where they are permitted to take part in the high school athletics, to have a chance at playing basketball.

The recreation association also urged persons who may be interested in officiating at basketball games to write to the association, box 81, Gettysburg. The next meeting of the league will be held at the Lentz Legion home December 6 at 7:30 p. m.

Recreation Association Schedule

Monday:
7:30 p. m., art group at recreation center.
8:30 p. m., community choir at high school.

Tuesday:
8:30 p. m., music lovers group at recreation center.

Friday:
7:30 to 9 p. m., junior high party at recreation center.
9 to 11 p. m., senior high open house at recreation center.

Saturday:
7:30 to 11 p. m., open house at recreation center.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—The ultimate in pro football nonsense likely will be reached about a month from now with both major leagues playing their championship games the same afternoon—with no possibility of a meeting between the winners. . . . The National league still calls its final tussle the "world championship." . . . Although the All-America conference is scheduled to wind up a week earlier, there's a strong likelihood of a tie or two that would postpone the decision. . . . New York, Buffalo and Baltimore are deadlocked each with three games to go, including Buffalo-Baltimore and Buffalo-New York. . . . Cleveland's unbeaten Browns have the edge in the west, but they're tackling a rugged assignment playing the up-and-coming Yankees here tomorrow then the Dons at Los Angeles Thanksgiving Day and the 49'ers at San Francisco the next Sunday. . . . The older league could run into a tie, too, but the Bears-Cardinals game December 12 likely will take care of that.

BROTHER ACT

This may be an old one, but it usually is revived when the golfing Turnesa brothers get together. . . . In 1926 Joe Turnesa shot a fine score in the U. S. open, only to be beaten out by Bobby Jones. . . . Brother Mike, who was a stay-at-home then, was weeding a green at the Elmsford club when an excited member received the news and told him: "It looks like Joe is going to win the open." . . . Mike just looked up glumly. "Why shouldn't he win?" Mike asked. "All he does is play golf."

SPORTSMENTION

Steve Filipowicz, the former Fordham footballer who hit 348 for Sunbury, Pa., last baseball season, may take a fling at catching for the Cincinnati Reds. Steve figures that since catchers are scarce, he stands a chance of making the grade. . . . The Boxing Managers' "Guilt" had to postpone its shipboard farewell party to Lee Savold because of the dockers' strike. Lee had to go to Halifax (which ain't where some managers have told him to go) to catch his boat for England.

East Berlin

East Berlin.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kothe have returned to their R. 2 home after spending a week with relatives at Reinbeck, N. Y.

The Mite society of Zwingle Reformed church will conduct a chicken pie supper and refreshment sale this evening at the church annex for the benefit of a fund to repaint the exterior of the church.

Mrs. E. Stanton DeBolt has returned from the Hanover hospital where she submitted to an operation about two weeks ago, and is spending a time at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, until she is further improved.

Miss Nettie E. Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Myers, R. 2, is able to be about after her recent attack of intestinal influenza. Miss Myers expects shortly to return to her new duties at the State License Bureau in Harrisburg, which position she recently accepted.

The senior class of the local high school will present a comedy entitled "The Bachelor's Wife," at their auditorium Wednesday evening, November 24. A matinee will be given for school children and those who cannot attend at night, on Wednesday.

The annual community Thanksgiving service will take place Wednesday evening, November 24, at Trinity Lutheran church. Speakers will be the Rev. Paul Gladfelter, Jacobus, former pastor of the local Lutheran charge; the Rev. Ernest W. Brindle, Biglerville, supply pastor of Zwingle Reformed church and the Rev. J. Monroe Danner, elder of the Upper Conewago congregation, Church of the Brethren. The public is welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lauver, York, were visitors to local friends during the week. The couple formerly resided here when Mr. Lauver held a position with the People's State bank.

The Willing Workers class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school will conduct an all-day bake sale at the local 5 and 10c store on Wednesday, November 24, beginning at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Richard O. Riess, who recently returned from a Baltimore hospital, is improved sufficiently to leave her home.

Willis A. Myers, Harrisburg, formerly of Two Churches, near here, is doing nicely after a recent operation.

LOUIS SHOWS FORM IN BOUT

Detroit, Nov. 20 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis casually pocketed a $9,000 paycheck here today, his share of a hometown exhibition fight last night which he took just as casually.

Louis, wearing heavily padded 14-ounce gloves, didn't let that keep him from giving a crowd of 12,531 fans a good show for the $34,755.60 they paid to watch him work six two-minute rounds against Vern Mitchell, curly-haired Detroit heavyweight.

Joe weighed 220, some 25 pounds more than Mitchell, who came in at 194½. There were no judges and there was no decision.

Just for the homefolks, Joe opened up on Mitchell twice, putting him down on his trunks for a two count in the second and dropping him on his knees in his own corner for a count of nine in the third.

Both times Mitchell went down under a flurry of blows at the head from Louis' padded fists.

Joe obviously could have put him away early. He showed more fighting here, according to his handlers, than on any of his previous exhibitions.

atation at the Harrisburg hospital for the removal of a cataract from his right eye. Mr. Myers will be 88 years old on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Resser, who were married July 31, are spending some time at the home of her mother, Mrs. Pauline Hurley. The Hurleys came to East Berlin from Carlisle in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Taylor, R. 2, are having an extension built onto the rear of their home, the former Mrs. Laura E. Rodkey property, which they purchased three years ago.

The Loyal Sons and Daughters class of Zwingle Reformed Church school conducted its November meeting during the week.

The local Fish and Game group is preparing to conduct a meeting on Tuesday evening, November 23, at the fire house. Refreshments will be served after the business meeting.

The Kanawago Hi-Y club of the local high school, directed by Eugene W. Sheely of the faculty, has elected these officers: President, Charles Sanders; vice president, Gerald Slothour; secretary, Gene Hoopes; treasurer, Ronald Hoke, and sergeant-at-arms, William Moul.

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg.—Prof. B. J. Eckenrode is spending several weeks with his daughter, Anne, in New Orleans.

Miss Mary Louise Callahan, of Gettysburg, is spending a week with Mrs. B. J. Eckenrode and son, Joseph.

Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Ireland and daughters, moved on Friday to San Francisco, Calif. Mr. Ireland is attached to the U. S. Army and will be stationed there for a time. Mrs. Ireland is the former Eugenia Gladhill.

Miss Mary Louise Callahan has resigned as clerk at the Book Nook, East Main street. Mrs. Charles Cingram is clerking at the Book Nook while the proprietor, B. J. Eckenrode, is away.

Mrs. Robert Gillelan, Mrs. Charles Landers, Miss Catherine Keilholtz, Mrs. A. W. McClellan, Mrs. George Eyster, Miss Grace Rowe, Mrs. Morris Zentz and Mrs. Roy Bollinger, all members of Elias Lutheran Missionary society attended the Middle Conference Fall rally held at the Lutheran church, Taneytown, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Bower and sons, "Ricky" and Johnny, and Mrs. Roy Bollinger visited recently Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bower, New Windsor, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pecher moved recently from an apartment on West Main street to their newly purchased home near Fairfield, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hobbs.

A food sale sponsored by the Reformed church of Emmitsburg will be held November 23, in the firemen's hall, starting at 11 o'clock. Lunches will be served.

Students of St. Joseph's college and Mt. St. Mary's college will present "The Barrett's" on Sunday, at 7:30 p. m., in DePaul auditorium at St. Joseph's college.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Adams and son, Roger, Miss Anna Cool, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stouter, Mrs. Ethel Wood and Mrs. Merle Keilholtz attended the miscellaneous bridal shower given by Mrs. Frances Jones in the Rocky Ridge community hall recently in honor of Mrs. Norman G. Wiley, the former Dorothy Wetzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wetzel.

The Catechism class of Elias Lutheran church is meeting each Saturday at 1:30 p. m. The class roll follows: Jean Troxell, president; Barbara Sue Hays, treasurer; Ruth Umbel, secretary; Kathleen Wantz, Jasper Wantz, Madell Ripka, Francis.

Madge Meredith (top), former actress recently convicted of kidnapping, waits the story of testimony at Los Angeles in a $65,732 civil damage suit brought against her by Verne V. Davis (bottom), 34. He charges he was with Nick Gianclis, Miss Meredith's former manager, when they were waylaid and beaten June 30, 1947. Miss Meredith now is awaiting appeal on a sentence of five years to life in prison for the kidnapping conviction.

CIO HAS "RED" ISSUE UP TODAY

Portland, Ore., Nov. 20 (AP)—One of the hottest issues before the CIO explodes into the open today—the question of punishing left-wing CIO councils that refuse to follow CIO policies.

The CIO executive board meets to act in the case of the Greater New York Industrial Union council, accused of thwarting CIO policy and aiding "enemies of labor."

A three-man committee which held a hearing in Washington last month was reported to be recommending that the board revoke the New York city council's charter.

Meanwhile Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, fired an early cannon in what is expected to be a CIO campaign for a fourth round of post-war wage raises.

Yesterday Reuther told a group of Portland businessmen, the City club, to get ready for the fourth round. He said the UAW is "already talking about a fourth round." He said, "If you haven't heard it, you'll hear it next week." By "next week" he meant the CIO convention which starts here Monday.

ces Jane Bollinger, Charles William Bushman, David R. Bushman, Brown McNair, Ronnie Lee Kelly and Doris Bollinger.

New elders, deacons and church organization officers and teachers in the Sunday school of Elias Lutheran church were installed last Sunday. They include: Elders, Charles Sharrer, Charles Bollinger; deacons, Lloyd Dern, Morris Zentz, Robert Daugherty; Sunday school officers and teachers, Luther Kugler, Robert Daugherty, Robert Saylor, Harry Troxell, Richard Saylor, Norman Shriver, Dorothy Dern, Dorothy Dern, Caroline McDonnell, Mrs. Roy Bollinger, Mrs. Roy Maxwell, Mrs. Charles Harner, Mrs. Philip Bower, Mrs. Robert Saylor, Nancy Beegle, Kathryn Keilholtz, Mrs. A. W. McClellan, Mrs. Charles Linn, Mrs. Robert Gillelan, Mrs. M. R. Tate, Mrs. George Eyster.

Women's Missionary society, Mrs. Philip Bower, Mrs. Charles Rowe, Mrs. Roy Bollinger, Mrs. A. W. McClellan, Mrs. Richard Zacharias; Lutheran League, Kathryn Keilholtz, Carrell Prock, Clyde Keilholtz and Ruth Neighbors. The church choir organized by electing Mrs. M. R. Tate, president; Nancy Beegle, secretary, and Miss Mildred Trevett, director.

The following new members have been added: George McDonnell, Gary Troxell, Clarence Hahn, Morris Zentz, Anna V. Plank, Harry Troxell and Robert Fitez.

LIONS WITNESS MOVIES OF HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Harry T. Harner, president of the Littlestown Lions club, was in charge of the business session of the meeting held on Thursday night in Bankers restaurant. Two visitors were present, L. Robert Snyder, Littlestown, and Harold Gulden, Hanover.

Two members of the club were selected to act as judges at the amateur show being sponsored by the Taneytown Lions club on Thursday, December 2. Ralph L. Staley was appointed as a representative from the club to serve on the service club committee of Adams county for the sesqui-centennial celebration in 1950.

The Littlestown High school football team and the coaches will be entertained by the club at the January 6 meeting, the place to be announced later.

The program, which was in charge of the Citizenship and Patriotism committee, composed of John N. Sell and Ames L. Spangler, included the showing of motion pictures of one of the high school football games and also of the Littlestown-Taneytown playoff baseball game. The pictures were shown by L. Robert Snyder.

The club is endeavoring to purchase a carriage for a local child who is unable to walk. J. Harvey Pettyjohn was appointed the flower committee. A directors' meeting followed the regular session. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, December 2, when the Civic Improvement committee, composed of H. Dewey Streig and John E. Stambaugh, will have charge of the program.

On Quiz Program
Robert B. Wareheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Wareheim, Park avenue, was one of a group of students from the York Junior college, who participated in a quiz program over WORK, on Tuesday evening.

At a meeting of the Young Men's Bible class of Redeemer's Reformed church, held on Wednesday evening in the social hall, it was decided to start making Christmas decorations to sell, the first week in December. The meeting was in charge of the president, Elmer Dutera. One new member, Clyde Crouse, was accepted into the class, which is taught by Dr. Richard M. Phreaner. A refreshment committee for the next meeting to be held Wednesday, December 15, was appointed, consisting of Stewart Long and Francis Mummet. Following the business session, refreshments were served by the November committee, composed of Clayton L. Evans and Richard Hartlaub.

Mrs. Cleason Plunkert, near town, was hostess to the members of the Starr Bible Class of St. Paul's Lutheran church, taught by Luther W. Ritter and Miss Rose V. Barker, at their monthly meeting held on Thursday evening. Mrs. Holman L. Sell was in charge of the meeting, which opened with a song service, followed by a scripture reading by Mrs. Walter Shriver and the Lord's Prayer. Guess packages were contributed by Mrs. Edward Plunkert, Mrs. William Dixon and Mrs. Cleason Plunkert and they were received by Mrs. Claude Winthrope, Mrs. Cleason Plunkert and Mrs. Paul Scheivert.

It was decided to hold a Christmas party on Thursday, December 16, instead of the regular meeting, at the home of Mrs. Annie and Mrs. Edgar Pfeffer, Cemetery street. There will be an exchange of gifts among the Sunshine sister, and the names of the sisters revealed, as well as the names of new sisters being chosen for 1948. Next Tuesday evening, the members of the organization will meet at the church at 7:30 o'clock to pack a Christmas box for the mission school at Konnarock, N. C. Anyone who desires to contribute clothing for the school, is requested to send donations to the church before that time.

The program for the evening included readings by Miss Virginia Plunkert, Mrs. Sterling L. Sell, Mrs. Luther Hess, Mrs. Edward Plunkert, Mrs. Emma Norwood, Mrs. Ralph Conover and Mrs. Edgar Pfeffer, the majority in keeping with the Thanksgiving season. The pastor, the Rev. David S. Kammerer, entertained with several humorous sketches. Mrs. Edgar Pfeffer won the prize for the best turkey, hand drawn, in the dark. Refreshments were served to those in attendance by the November committee, composed of Mrs. Walter Shriver, Mrs. Cleason Plunkert and Mrs. Luther Hess. The December committee includes Mrs. Holman L. Sell, Mrs. William Dixon, Mrs. George Stover, Mrs. Maurice C. Wareheim and Mrs. Edna Fortney.

Plans were discussed for the food sale to be held by the members of Girl Scout Troop 14 next Saturday morning, in the fire engine house, beginning at 9 o'clock, at their weekly meeting held on Thursday evening. The food sale was postponed from today because of a similar affair being conducted by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Mason and Dixon Memorial Point No. 6954, Veterans of Foreign Wars. It was also decided that the meeting next week will be on Tuesday instead of Thursday, because of Thanksgiving.

The Brotherhood of St. John's Lutheran church held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the church, opening with a devotional period in charge of Edgar Wolfe. Following a song service, the scripture lesson was read by James Myers and prayer offered by the pastor, the Rev. Kenneth D. James. Richard Wolfe served as piano accompanist for the group singing.

Following the devotions, a Bible quiz was conducted by Edgar Wolfe, chairman of the program committee. The business session was in charge of the president, Fred W. Kinz, at which time it was decided to hold a Christmas party for the members of the brotherhood and their families on Tuesday, December 21, in the form of a covered dish supper. Gifts will be exchanged at that time among the adults, and parents who attend and bring their children are requested also to bring a gift for their children. The following committees were appointed by the president for the party: Program, the Rev. Mr. James, Clair Beamer and Kenneth Miller; refreshment, George Streig, Lewis Lippy and Walter Yingling. A nominating committee was also appointed, to prepare a slate of officers for presentation at the December meeting. It includes Lewis Lippy, Raymond Rineman and Walter Myers. Following the business session, dart baseball was enjoyed by the members in attendance.

TEN YEARS AGO

Dr. Hanson Heads Lincoln Fellowship of Pennsylvania: For the purpose of "bringing back to the youth of America the ideals of Abraham Lincoln," a group of historians and students of Lincoln organized the Lincoln Fellowship of Pennsylvania here on Saturday afternoon and set for its membership goal the first year "500 prominent citizens of this state." The only requirement for membership is a vital interest in Lincoln. Henry E. Luhrs, secretary of the fellowship, said.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson is president of the new organization. C. H. Martin, Lancaster, a 97-year-old Civil War veteran, is the treasurer. Martin heard Lincoln deliver his address here in 1863, and on the 75th anniversary of that occasion repeated the address himself before the 12 organizers at a luncheon meeting at Hotel Gettysburg on Saturday afternoon.

115 Attend Eighth Annual Sons of Vets Banquet: One hundred and fifteen members and officers of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War and affiliated organizations and guests attended the eighth annual banquet of the Past Presidents and Past Commanders association, south central district of Pennsylvania, in the Hotel Gettysburg Saturday evening.

Leo J. Fowler, Carlisle, was the toastmaster and Frederick Godcharles, Milton, historian, the principal speaker.

Captain E. F. Strausbaugh was chairman of the executive committee on arrangements.

Fruit Grower to Wed: The marriage of Miss Emily Davis, Collingswood, New Jersey, and Ralph Tyson, son of Mrs. Chester Tyson, Gardeners, R. D., will be solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents.

Frederick E. Griest, Jr., Flora Dale, will serve as best man.

Louise Hartzell Accepts Position in New York: Miss Louise Hartzell, East Lincoln avenue, has accepted a position with the J. Walter Thompson company, New York city.

Miss Janet Ott will replace Miss Hartzell as secretary to Eugene V. Bullett, Esq.

Firemen Honor 25 Who Died in County: Twenty-five members of Adams county fire companies who died during the last year were honored at the annual memorial service of the Adams County Firemen's association Sunday afternoon in St. Joseph's academy at McSherrystown. F. V. Topper, president of the association, conducted the service, the thirteenth of its kind.

One Gettysburg company member—Moses E. Bair—is included on the list to be memorialized. The others follow: Mark Baker, Robert E. Fisher, Nelson Beamer, E. E. Carson, H. L. Heller, William C. Yeatts, M. A. Shue, H. U. Walter, F. H. Smith, Latimore Feaser, Edward Strausbaugh, Ezra Brumgard, M. L. Slouther, Curtis Spangler, James F. Pitzer, John T. Appier, Lawrence Leonard, Frank S. Burke, Samuel J. Kuhn, E. C. Livingston, R. M. Straley, Milton D. Feiser, Harvey Hartman and Ralph Williams.

The memorial address was delivered by the Rev. Fr. Patrick F. McGee, chaplain of the association.

Hawbecker-Strickler: Miss Helen Louise Strickler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Strickler, Chambersburg, and John Vincent Hawbecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl V. Hawbecker, also of Chambersburg, were married Friday afternoon by the Rev. Elwood G. Johnson, at the parsonage of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Fayetteville.

The bridegroom is a chemist at the C. H. Musseiman company in Biglerville.

Gettysburg Motor Club Gains 155 New Members: A gain of 155 members was reported at the twelfth annual meeting of the Gettysburg Motor club of Adams county held in the Strand theatre Wednesday

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SIMPLICITY

More and more, as life grows more complex, worries creep in and there is confusion. One great remedy for all this is simplicity. We have become obsessed with the idea of possessing—accumulating far more than we need or can well handle.

We are overburdened with deadwood. Simple living, with light equipment, is a lesson learned all too late by all too many. Simple statements are longest remembered. The late Joseph Pulitzer, great publisher of the old New York World, was forever urging brevity and simplicity as the first requisite for a good news story. It always applies.

I have always noted that the simplest designs in furniture are the most costly. And this is as true in women's garments. Simplicity of design and genuineness of fine material are what count. And in art—the simpler the sketch the more impressive it is. Forain, the great French painter and etcher, did an etching of "The Prodigal Son" that is simplicity itself—a little house in the distance, a road, a discarded hat and walking stick—and father and son in a most poignant embrace. That is all, but it's the story. A masterpiece of drawing—and simplicity.

After the nomination of Abraham Lincoln for president of the United States, a publication requested of Lincoln some data as to his life. He replied that there was little to furnish, as it could all be added up to "the short and simple annals of the poor." It was the simplicity and sincerity of Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" that has given to it its immortality.

We would all be happier human beings, and more efficient ones as well, if we simplified our lives, did away with the deadwood of worry, and of so many things that we think of as important, but which are not, and lived simpler and less cluttered lives.

From the small towns and villages have come the great of this earth—there where the lessons of simplicity are early urged and where the simple virtues and values are emphasized. Nature's world is one of simplicity from which all of us may learn.

LOST CHANCE
He would have reached the top
if he had dared
Step after step to climb
He might have captured greatness had he cared
Enough to spend the time.

The skillful hand by practice must be earned.
For skill the young must wait.
But all the tedious drudgery
he spurned
Until it was too late.

Boy, gather skill and knowledge
while you can—
Now while it's yours to get—
Lest the lost chance for triumph
as a man
Life-long you will regret.

This increase in membership raised the total for the club to 552, Henry M. Scharf, president, announced during the evening.

The feature of the meeting was the showing of motion pictures of the scenic and historic spots in Pennsylvania.

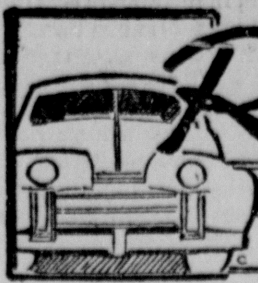

The vote for directors of the club for the coming year resulted in the re-election of all former directors.

Elect Two from Town Phil Betas: Both of the students of Gettysburg college who have been selected for membership in Phi Beta Kappa are residents of Gettysburg. Those who have been chosen are Miss Virginia Storrick and Robert Fischer.

Lewis, C. L. O. Head, Tells Collegians to Study Democracy: At the invitation of officers of the Inter-collegiate Newspaper association in convention here Friday and Saturday, John L. Lewis, who stopped at the Hotel Gettysburg on Saturday where a convention luncheon was in session, delivered an unscheduled speech to the young journalists before continuing on his way to Washington, D. C., from Pittsburgh. On Friday he had been elected president of the newly formed Congress of Industrial Organizations at a convention in Pittsburgh.

The labor leader told the college newspaper men and women gathered here from four states and the District of Columbia to study the problems of democracy in preparation for future years of service. He urged the audience to study the problems of Europe.

Miss Major Dies from Effects of Fall: Miss Annie Hastings Major for many years a teacher in the public schools of Gettysburg and Adams county, died Friday morning in the Warner hospital from the effects of a fall that she suffered Wednesday at her home.

The best resolution for the smart driver to make is merely to remember that the other fellow probably hasn't made any at all.

Daily Exercise Please

My mail appears to be building up a splendid case for the plan of keeping the car well exercised at all times. Many owners with mileage of 100,000 and over seem to have less trouble than those whose chariots merely follow the neighborhood shopping route with an occasional run out to visit Uncle Bill. Well lubricated, properly adjusted units of a car do not suffer from normal use. This is well illustrated in the case of valves. Let the car stand in the garage for a week or two and you are inviting valve trouble, especially if you merely drive downtown or to the club. If you must tie up the car at least give it the benefit of a healthy run when you do use it. I recall one case where a car developed a puzzling carburetion condition when brand new. Mechanics discovered that the float had been damaged so that it was binding against one side of the bowl. This had happened when the car was being transported over the road with fuel drained from the carburetor. Oil leakage may cause considerable trouble during a long lay-up. In service the owner would quickly detect it and take appropriate action. As most of you know nothing helps spark plugs more than a good swift run on the open road.

Pointers On Filling

How much fluid is required to refill a shock absorber which isn't equipped with a filler plug is usually determined by observing the suffix letter which follows the first four numerals of the number stamped on the absorber's body. If it is the letter "D," for instance, the unit will require four ounces of fluid.

That dirt in the hydraulic braking system may have found entrance when you carelessly added fluid to the reservoir of the master cylinder. It should be a warning always to clean carefully around the filler plug before removing it.

Spare That Hand Brake

Nothing may ever happen if you ignore the rule but the better caper is to apply the hand brake moderately instead of pulling up on the handle as if you were braking a fire truck. Too abrupt braking may cause hydraulic brake pistons to jam, and where the hand brake operates through the rear hydraulic brakes you can do a jamming act with the handle as well as by excess pressure on the foot pedal. Where possible, as in the garage storage, leave the car in gear rather than set the hand brake and thus keep the rear brake pistons under extensive pressure.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"Once again the rank and file of motorists is complaining about low gas mileage. I was expecting this because high speed drops mileage and nothing suggests speed more than a nicely broken in new car. Apparently folks will have to learn all over again that as the speedometer goes up the faster the tank level drops.

"Revival of those mileage marathons will serve to remind us of this. The one held in 1942 showed that a stock car without any gas saving gadgets could be made to deliver nearly 90 miles to the gallon. The winning car actually ran 88.3 miles on a single gallon. Its speed, however, was equally surprising—just 14.95 miles per hour! The runner up was driven at 13.35 m.p.h."

Reversing The Rule

Those who go in for the finer points in driving will be interested in a special procedure for backing up which is part of the routine taught to students in some driving schools which go in for higher education a wheel. During backing the driver is urged to leave the car in reverse gear but to declutch, if the car is on level ground. Purpose of this is to reduce the severity of impact should the driver miscalculate and hit something. Also it helps to prevent him from backing too rapidly. Reverse is the lowest gear on the car, thus giving it the highest rate of acceleration and greatest power. The suggested procedure will also help check clutch and car chatter which bothers so many operators when they are reversing.

No Reason To Change

Where roads have a high crown it is not unusual for drivers to ask service men if something can be done to prevent the car from pulling to the right. This is, of course, easily done by changing the caster on the right hand side of the car, but the change isn't recommended. Since most driving these days is done over the boulevard type of road any variation between the front wheels will result in unsatisfactory steering if the car has been changed to fit crowned roads. I think a smarter way to meet the problem is to give the right front tire a little more air than the left front whenever the rightward pull is felt. Pressures can then be evened up when the car is rolling over level roads again.

Maybe You Knew
That the average steering gear reduces the movement of the wheel to about a 20th at the Pitman arm and boosts the force you apply to the wheel about 20 times.

That the most important thing to watch in servicing hydraulic valve lifters is cleanliness.

That cars with automatic transmissions should be pushed for emergency startings rather than towed.

Start With It Lean
Since there is often a question whether the engine won't start because the mixture is too lean or too rich always start with it too lean and work toward enriching. In other words, with a cold engine try cranking without pumping on the accelerator. With a hot engine open the throttle wide to let in more air and don't pump on the accelerator. If the job has a hand choke of course don't use this until you know by the engine's refusal to start that it needs a richer mixture. Incidentally, if the engine definitely is over-choked, as evidenced by smell of gasoline, either wait awhile or crank with the throttle wide open, and without pumping on the accelerator or choking.

Back To Showing Off
Soon when conditions become more competitive salesmen will be demonstrating the special capabilities of their wares and we will be witnessing some strange accidents. Already there have been reports of over-enthusiastic owners getting themselves into difficulty trying to show off their new cars. I mention it because "showing off" is an old custom that should never be allowed to come back into the picture. Even back in April of 1899 they were worrying about it in an issue of "The Horseless Age," the report being that an employee of the Daimler Company had boasted that he could stop the car so quickly as to throw his passengers to the ground and then proceeded to do it so effectively as to kill himself and another passenger.

Having Their Troubles
Q. Can you suggest any way to stop oil from leaking out around the rear main bearing of my car's engine, other than replacing the bearing and its retainer as described in the service manual. H. H. R.

A. On the theory that the drain of the retainer may be clogged with sludge you might try using some sludge remover and manually cleaning out the engine and oil pan.

Q. What causes my engine to throw its piston tops. I no sooner replace a piston than I have the trouble again. F. C. Jr.

A. The rings may bear too heavily against the cylinder walls, causing excessive overheating. This would also tend to rob the rings of normal lubrication. Do what you can to reduce the operating temperature of the engine and use a generous amount of break-in or valve oil in with the very light engine oil. Of course watch the oil level carefully, for these lighter lubes will burn off more rapidly.

Q. How can I get better results from the hot water heater in my car. It has never been very effective. Have used a higher opening thermostat in winter, and I note that the heater isn't mounted above the top level of water in the radiator. H. N. McB.

A. Check to see if the direction of circulation is right. Water should enter the bottom of the heater core and exit at the top.

Q. Does the use of rust inhibitors in anti-freeze make it less effective as a protection against the cold? N. L. K.

A. As a matter of fact if the inhibitor is emulsifying oil it will actually increase the solution's anti-freeze properties, for oil is in itself an anti-freeze. Don't use additional inhibitor if the new anti-freeze you have bought is marked as containing it.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern street, West Hartford 7, Conn., and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

DR. BERNSTEIN DIES

GOVERNMENT'S VICTORY IN CHINA NOT YET CERTAIN

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The Chinese government's announcement of a sweeping victory over the Communist rebels in the crucial battle of Suchow—gateway to the capital of Nanking—has been seized upon in central China as giving hope that the terrific Red offensive has been smashed.

Certainly the report is encouraging, but we shall do well to await developments before jumping to conclusions. We must bear in mind that this great battle has been raging with unabated fury for some ten days. The time has arrived when, even under far more favorable circumstances, the attacking Chinese Communists might be expected to pause to bring up their communications and repair heavy losses in men and materiel.

Thus the halt in the attack doesn't in itself mean that the Reds are knocked out. Their assault may be resumed after a breather.

Casualties Heavy

The casualties have been big on both sides. A Nanking spokesman has estimated the government losses in men at 40,000. He placed the Red casualties at 130,000, much of this great loss having been due to massed Red forces being caught by Nationalist Air Forces on the open plain without cover.

Assuming that the estimate of Communist losses is correct, how are the rebels going to find quick replacements for such a great number of men? I was given an interesting side-light on this problem from Dr. Peng Haueh-Peh, adviser to the Chinese cabinet, who paused Wednesday in New York on his way from Paris to Nanking. In the course of a luncheon chat Dr. Peng said:

"The Communists raise their fighting men by terrorism under which every able-bodied male in a Red-controlled area is forced to serve. This terrorism may even involve the torture or killing of a man's relatives. All the areas under Communist control are organized through terrorism of men, women and children."

Nanking Means Prestige

Dr. Peng's appraisal of the situation fits in with established methods of the Bolsheviks in other theatres of Asia and Europe.

But to get back to the battle for Suchow, the Communists are bound to resume the offensive if it is humanly possible. This is true not only because of the strategic value of this route into central China but because the capital of all China is involved.

The prestige of both the government and the rebels is involved in the possession of Nanking, for the capital of any country is the symbol of national security in the minds of the citizens.

CITE FAILURE TO PROTEST FINES

Philadelphia, Nov. 20 (AP) — District attorney's aides failed to protest fines imposed by Magistrate John J. O'Malley in 193 indictable cases, the Commonwealth admits.

Special Deputy Attorney General Laurence H. Eldredge set the figure in a stipulation yesterday at O'Malley's trial on malfeasance charges.

Eldredge, however, pointed out in an exception that in at least 10 of the 193 cases the assistant district attorneys did recommend the defendants be held for court. This recommendation was made, Eldredge emphasized, although there was no opposition to the fines after they were imposed.

Late yesterday Charles A. Barry, president of the Carson Packing company, in which O'Malley holds an interest, was called to the stand as a surprise defense witness.

Phone Employees Reject Pay Offer

Philadelphia, Nov. 20 (AP)—A wage increase offer by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania has been turned down by the Pennsylvania

Telephone Employees Union, an unaffiliated organization. The company offered a $2 weekly pay boost for 55 per cent of the 3,000 accounting employees claimed by the union as members, said George A. Brenner, union attorney. Other increases ranged from $4 to $6 for various groups representing less than five per cent of the accounting employees, he added.

Katharine H. Krug, union president, announced rejection of the company offer. She said yesterday the industry as a whole already has received between 11 and 15 cents an hour increase and now is getting ready for a new round of wage increases.

Company officials were not available for comment.

TRUMAN THINKS DEPRESSION CAN BE PREVENTED

Key West, Fla., Nov. 20 (AP)—President Truman let it be known today through one of his closest associates that he believes his administration can avert another depression.

Representative Sam Rayburn, speaker-to-be of the House, laid the administration position on the line here before flying back to Texas and a speaking engagement at Dallas tonight.

"If a major recession or depression should come—which I do not expect—it will not be justified by our economic situation, but will be man-made," Rayburn told a news conference after emerging from talks with the President at the temporary "White House" here.

Returns Tomorrow
This jibed with Mr. Truman's position in campaign talks in which he contended another depression could be avoided only by a Democratic victory because of his party's position that the GOP would look after the rich and not all classes of the economy.

Mr. Truman's vacation drew to a close today. He set out for the beach again for a swim and a sunbath—his daily routine since his arrival two weeks ago.

He flies back to Washington tomorrow for a heavy schedule of conferences highlighted by his meeting Monday with Secretary of State Marshall and roving ECA Ambassador Harriman. They will review the threats to peace in Europe, China and elsewhere.

Rayburn talked over the administration's legislative program with the President while here.

New Oxford

New Oxford—The Rev. Robert D. Hartnett, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Catholic church, has announced that a Franciscan Father will be in charge of the annual Forty Hours Devotions at the church beginning with mass on Sunday morning, November 28.

Mrs. Mary E. Hoyer and daughter, Miss Anna D. Hoyer, who have resided at the former Van Eck property east of town since coming from Greensburg in the summer of 1947, have begun moving to their newly erected stone house next door.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Norris are making their home in Hanover since he has a position. Mr. and Mrs. Norris were married last week at Silver Run, Md. Mrs. Norris is the former Miss Virgie I. Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Griffin, near here.

A meeting of the Holy Name society of the Immaculate Conception Catholic church was conducted Monday evening at the parochial hall.

Mrs. Burnell Deardorff and family spent Tuesday in Hanover.

The Knights of St. George, affiliated with the local Catholic parish, conducted a meeting on Sunday afternoon.

An exhibit of attractively illustrated books for children was placed in the window of the New Oxford Item office this week in observance of National Book Week.

Catechetical instruction was recently begun for young people aspiring to membership in the First Lutheran church. The class includes: Patty Keith, Sally Keith, Joanne Kratzert, Fred Richester, Ruthanna Roland, Dorothy Smith, Betty Smith, Darlene Wagner and Merrill A. Yohe, Jr.

Maurice E. Reindollar, near town, made a business trip to Baltimore during the week.

The store building at the square, for many years occupied by Beale's restaurant which was closed this fall, has been completely redecorated and was taken possession of this week by C. Robert Sleigher, furniture dealer, who for the past year operated his business in the building two doors away, formerly the Draft Board office.

Community Growth Suggestions Out

Harrisburg, Nov. 20 (AP)—Pennsylvania communities were shown the "possibilities of growth from within and without" today in a publication released by the state Commerce department and the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce.

The 48-page pamphlet, entitled "local action for community development," shows with the aid of cartoons and charts the basic factors to be considered in expanding a community's business and industry.

HEADS PRESIDENTS

Harrisburg, Nov. 20 (AP)—Dr. Paul R. Anderson, of Pittsburgh, is the new president of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities. Dr. Anderson, president of the Pennsylvania College for Women, succeeds Dr. Herbert L. Spencer, Bucknell university president. The association's 53rd annual convention also named Dr. James Case, Jr., president of Washington and Jefferson college, as vice-president, replacing Dr. Anderson. The group's other officers were reelected.

The Dancing Heart

BY EMILY NOBLE

AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 22

"So you are afraid I still love Joe?"

"No, darling. I was only afraid you might want to have Joe for a little romance on the side."

Her eyes snapped. "How dare you say that? I haven't even seen him since—since I was foolish enough to send him away. Now there!"

Rex chuckled. "You can't worry me now. That's all over. I said your faults were little ones. You'd never trick me. I know how coldly you refused Pickering's invitation to dinner, though you were sensible enough to keep the flowers he sent. You'll never go back there to work. You see you have closed every door, so you have to go on dancing and stick to me. I like it that way. Next week you'll go to the country and love it."

As she thought things over she realized that everything Rex said was indeed common sense. They were a partnership and so far he certainly paid out more than he took in. Her apartment was very comfortable and she had everything she needed. She had more clothes than she had ever dreamed of possessing. She was glad Father Toughy had come and had so easily understood she was not living in sin. She didn't care what anyone else in the old neighborhood thought. She went back to church again, but only because it was Father Toughy's church. She knew Joe was always there in a corner watching her, but he never came up and spoke. No one did. She arrived in a taxi with Roy and left with him. If anyone thought Roy was her sin she didn't care. She was helping him. Father Toughy was helping him. No one else mattered. And she did enjoy the trip to Maine. It was like joining a holiday group, and she had never been in the country before for more than a one-day outing. It was a grand, happy two weeks. There were long walks and picnics and boating trips. She had been a little afraid of being considered a rank outsider and being cold-shouldered, but instead everyone was most kind. She laughed and enjoyed herself, realizing that she had been very lonely of late. No one pried into her business, and since everyone had great ambitions each talked of his own and also was willing to listen to anyone else. Her dancing was applauded by the company as well as the audience. She was a summer stock company success and reviewers said nice things about her.

Rex wrote her to stay on after her engagement was over, as she was seemingly benefiting so much and in the city the late August heat was at its worst. He hoped to have grand news for her on her return, and while he didn't say just what that was, he did say he wanted her to look her glowing best for a screen test. The thought seemed to lift her up so she fairly floated over the ground as she walked. Hollywood, that was to be her real new life. All this was just preparation for it.

Walking in the woods, she found the trees and danced there. No one saw her. Several squirrels peered out curiously at the Irish dancer in the Maine woods, and she kissed her hands to them, at which they scampered away. She threw back her head, laughing exultantly as her feet flew. She sang as loudly as she could, knowing no one would hear her even as no one could see her. She was alone, triumphant, glowingly happy. She was going to have everything her heart could desire just as Rex said. She was through with poverty and slums and drunkenness and—and all the past. She was riding the crest of the wave and it was carrying her to the golden sands of California.

Breathless finally, she flung herself at full length on the mossy ground. She felt she could fly. Or else lie there forever drinking in the rich pine-scented air. She flung her wild laughter up toward the towering tree tops high above her. It was all glorious. Even her hard dancing lessons were glorious now. She understood at last. She would never complain of anything. She was too deeply stirred to lie long on the mossy ground. She had to keep moving. Once out on the road again she danced along. A car came along with several young actors in it and picked her up. She jumped in, laughing at their queries as to where she had been.

"I've been dancing in the woods. I've never been so happy in all my life. I was going to dance all the way back to the hotel."

"All alone?" queried one mockingly.

"Of course. Who wants company when happy?"

A girl laughed. "It's the company that makes me happy."

"You have no ambition," cried the man. "Rosalie is only waiting for a message to dash to Hollywood."

Rosalie chuckled. "Don't worry. I'll get it soon. I'm sure of it."

The girl sat up. "Oh, I forgot. There is a telegram for you at the desk."

"Hurray! Hurray!" the others shouted.

Rosalie stopped laughing and drew a deep breath. "It—it may be something else."

"No. It couldn't be. You must buy champagne for everyone."

She agreed, but the wild, gay mood was lost. They drove quickly because now everyone wanted to know what was in the telegram. The others stood expectantly about as she fumbled with it. It fell to the floor and was picked up for her before she finally got it open. She read its brief message slowly twice; then the yellow paper slipped from her fingers again.

"What is it, Rosalie? You must tell us!"

"You can read it." Her voice sounded faint even to herself.

The girl snatched it up and it was devoured. It said, "Mom very sick. Wants you. Please come." It was signed Joe. The girl tossed it to the others and caught Rosalie's arm.

"Too bad. It'll come next time. Who's Joe?"

"I know!" cried another. "It's Smokey Joe. He rescued you, didn't he? And his mother is that fat woman who taught you to dance. It must be a stroke, or heart. You'll have to go, Rosalie. You'll have to fly."

Rosalie nodded limply. "Yes. I—I'll have to fly."

IMPOSE FINES IN 'MEAT' CASES

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 20 (AP)—The commonwealth checked slaughterhouses and meat processing plants today in an effort to learn who is selling horse meat for human consumption.

J. R. Heilman, chief investigator of the state agriculture department, says he will prove "in the future" that horse meat was processed and sold in Pennsylvania "and consumed by human beings." Heilman made the charge yesterday during two separate hearings before a justice of the peace.

A lawyer's son and two operators of a kennel supply company were fined a total of $1,550 on charges of selling meat processed from dead horses and cows for use as dog food.

Fined were B. Frank Keady, Jr., of Lancaster, former tennis coach at Franklin and Marshall and a lawyer's son, $600; M. N. Rittenhouse, Port Washington, Pa., $600, and his wife, $350. The two justices of the peace were Charles J. Gorman and William Wrigley. They held separate hearings here.

Heilman told Gorman a load of meat from dead horses and cows was brought into Pennsylvania from New York state. Specifically, the three persons fined were charged with illegal transportation, processing and sale of horse meat. This is in violation of the commonwealth's pure foodstuffs act.

York Springs

York Springs—Annual Harvest Home services were conducted Sunday evening at the Church of God of this section, of which the pastor is the Rev. Donald G. Roemer.

"The Skeleton Walks," a mystery-comedy, was presented Tuesday and Wednesday evenings as the annual class play of the seniors of the local high school. The production was presented to the public in the Community Hall. The seniors had parts the players being: Robert Wolf, Joyce Weiser, Barbara Ann Chronister, Richard Miller, Ellen Williams, Charles Congleton, Janice Brough, Jean Harbold, Joan Harbold and Dale Guise.

The Always Faithful class of the local Lutheran Sunday school will conduct a chicken and waffle supper for the public this evening from 5 to 8 o'clock at the community fire hall.

Mrs. Guy Deardorff was hostess on Tuesday evening to the Willing Workers Organization of the local Lutheran church when they held a meeting at her home.

Mrs. Harvey Lerew was hostess on Friday to members of the local Home Economics group. Homemade mixes were the subject for discussion under the direction of Miss Mary Jane Mickey, Adams county home extension representative.

Tooth Is Removed From Girl's Lung

Philadelphia, Nov. 20 (AP)—Connie Spiekermier, seven, returns to her home in Fargo, N. D., by air today after the successful removal of a tooth from her lung at Temple University's Bronchoscopic Clinic.

Connie swallowed the tooth during a tonsillectomy Tuesday in Fargo. The tooth became lodged in her lung. Accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Frank Spiekermier, she was rushed here by plane and admitted to the hospital Wednesday. The tooth was removed by means of a bronchoscope.

Several dozen different starches are made for the paper maker, textile mill, salad dressing manufacturer, laundry, and other uses.

SEVEN RARER SPRING BULBS

If flower growers limit their fall bulb planting to hyacinths, daffodils (narciss), tulips, and perhaps a few crocuses, despite the desirability of these favorites, they will be missing several of the rarer members of this large group. For example, below are described general planting practices for seven exceptionally meritorious bulbous flowers which permit November planting and yet bring a prodigious wealth of beauty to the home grounds in early spring.

Crown Imperial — Listed in bulb catalogues as Fritillaria imperialis, this showy flower comes into bloom from mid-April until early May. The stalk measures 2½ to 3 feet in height and displays advantageously its yellow, orange or red blooms. It prefers a sunny, dry location and deeply mellow loam of a sandy texture. Place the bulb on its side and surround it with sand. Cover 6 inches deep.

Dogstooth Violet — To avoid mistakes in ordering bulbs of this fine spring flower, growers should use the botanical name — Erythronium deniscanis. Cover bulbs 3 inches deep in a gritty, well drained loam, although it thrives in a wide range of soil types. Bulbs should be covered about 3 inches deep. Both of these irises trace their ancestry back to the bulbous group sometimes known as Spanish irises. They come into bloom early and may be planted as late as soil and weather conditions permit in the fall.

HOW AND WHY OF STORING SOIL
For the past several years the editor has urged flower growers, vegetable gardeners and farmers to store a liberal supply of dry, fertile loam before winter for spring use. Many readers have adopted this practice and we have frequently heard from them with grateful expressions for the suggestion. For those who have not yet begun this time-saving and always profitable economy, the following practical facts are offered:

One of the most serious delaying factors in planting early flowers, from seedling plants or seed, also for sowing extra early beds of leaf lettuce, planting peas, starting cold-frames and hotbeds and actually a score or more of other lawn and garden tasks in late February through into April is wet soil. Every gardener has experienced this handicap. Yet few have ever done anything to avoid it or to abate its unprofitable nuisance. The easy and almost costless solution is to store a large supply of dry loam in the fall.

In most cases a fairly mellow loam is needed in this drying role in the spring, preferably a loam leaning toward a sandy texture and well balanced with organic matter. Such a soil is usually available along a fertile old fence row or even in well tended garden areas or fields.

There are many ways to store dry soil, depending largely on the supply potentially needed the next spring. For a small flower bed or two and perhaps a few potted plants, window boxes and seed flats a bushel or two of loam may be stored in a box or barrel in the basement or outbuilding. The main requirement is to store it where it will not freeze over winter or at least where it will not be frozen when needed in late winter and early spring.

Larger supplies may be stored in bins in sheds or barns or in other sheltered places. If stored when dry, the soil will not be greatly impaired in workable quality by freezing. Of course, soil stored while wet may freeze so hard that it will be as unworkable in late winter as that exposed to outdoor weather conditions. Many gardeners who have plenty of cold-frame space not in use store surplus soil under glass over winter.

One of the first imperative needs for dry soil in the new gardening year is encountered when hotbeds are started in late January or early February. Next come coldframe and seed flat demands, also whatever loam is needed for potting indoor plants and transplanting ornamental and vegetable seedlings.

Early overlooked from the perspective of autumn is the need for dry loam to permit sowing an early bed of leaf lettuce in a protected nook in February. This may be started under glass in a sunny cold-frame or even under muslin. But always dry loam is needed to mix with wet soil or to substitute for wet soil to avoid waiting until the outdoor soil is sufficiently dried out to permit working.

Another major role in which dry loam is needed is for planting extra early garden peas, beets and other crops which are immune to light

GOP MAJORITY BACKING DUFF

Harrisburg, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Republican majority in the State Senate lined up unanimously today behind strong adherents of Gov. James H. Duff for the critical 1949 legislative sessions.

Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor was renominated for Senate president after an 11th hour collapse of all party opposition to his election to a third term. The action assured re-election of the 72-year-old Harrisburger when the new general assembly convenes Jan. 4.

Sen. O. J. Tallman, Allentown attorney, first announced he would oppose Taylor, who had the backing of Duff. He withdrew from the race a day later with a denial that his candidacy had meant a revival of factionalism among Pennsylvania Republicans.

With Tallman also refusing his old post as GOP floor leader in the Senate, Sen. John M. Walker, 48-year-old Pittsburgh attorney, was given the key place. One-time counsel to former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, spring frosts. If dry soil is available in numerous cases, it can be mixed along the prospective rows and thereby correct soggy soil which would otherwise delay plantings several days or even by weeks. The same truth applies to early sweet peas and other annual flowers which may be started in early March. Save a liberal supply of dry loam. Do it now. The 1949 garden will pay big dividends for the effort.

Walker has been a vigorous Duff supporter and is noted for his quick repartee in Senate debate.

Sen. James S. Berger (R-Potter) was named Senate caucus chairman in place of the late Sen. Clarence D. Becker, of Lebanon; Sen. A. Evan Kephart (R-Phila) caucus secretary; and Sen. Fred P. Hare, Jr. (R-Somerset), Republican whip.

Still to be organized is the reduced GOP majority in the State House of Representatives. Acting Speaker Herbert P. Sorg (R-Elk) is expected to call a meeting early next month. Sorg is in line for elevation to the speakership permanently but the races for other House leaders are still wide open.

MARK STEEL FOR FIRST NATIONAL 'STRATEGIC' JOB

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The steel industry has agreed to set aside some of its scarce product for transporting an undisclosed "strategic material" to this country.

Plans for the new program, under the industry's voluntary priority system, were announced yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Sawyer after a meeting with the steel men.

For security reasons the amount of metal allocated and the type of strategic material destined for the nation's war emergency stockpile was not disclosed.

However, officials said, the session did disclose a "very cooperative attitude" by the steel representatives toward administration requests in contrast to that displayed at their last get-together a month before the election. At the October 6 meeting the steel men approved only two government proposals, rejected four and postponed four others.

Since the Democratic sweep there has been wide speculation that President Truman will ask the new Congress for mandatory control powers over steel products if the voluntary system fails. The voluntary plan, adopted by the Republican 80th Congress as a substitute for Mr. Truman's control requests, is due to expire February 28.

80th Congress addressed the annual dinner of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce last night.

Referring to the "New Deal," he said "it was the south which helped to hold the line for American enterprise through the trying years of the pre-war experiment in Washington."

It is the duty of other members of Congress to give the new administration a chance to outline its objectives, he went on, "but we must keep our political powder dry, so to speak. We must stand guard against the ever advancing tide of state socialism."

In the healthy human, red blood cells live, on the average, for about 120 days before being replaced by new ones.

bank officials and employees. He said "the public judges a bank from the standpoint of the service it renders, the friendliness of the institution and its employees, its policy on credit and its soundness."

He outlined the duties and responsibilities of stockholders. Discussing the responsibilities of bank directors and officers, he urged the importance of the welfare of the employees and mentioned specially the matter of "good pay" and a pension plan. Character, diligence and the willingness to work were listed among the most important requirements of employees.

Conservative Policy

President Thomas told the gathering the policy of the First National has been "conservative. Loans have been built slowly, giving a better opportunity for screening," he said. Pointing to the importance of a reasonable degree of liquidity in a bank's assets, he asserted: "The strength of any bank lies primarily in the quality of its assets rather than in its size."

He declared that banks are public service institutions which do not exist to serve one interest or group of interests in a community but to serve all of the people.

Mrs. Harry Cunningham, who was observing his 81st birthday anniversary, was presented by Mr. Thomas. Regrets from a number of stockholders unable to attend were read by the bank president.

ESTIMATE COST OF NEXT WAR AT 540 BILLION

Philadelphia, Nov. 20 (AP)—A third World War would cost the United States a minimum of 540 billion dollars or 66 per cent more than the last one, says Navy Cmdr. William T. Greenhalgh.

"What another war would cost us brings a chill to the heart of anyone who considers such a catastrophe," Greenhalgh told 500 persons attending the Industrial College of the Armed Forces' Economic Mobilization Seminar yesterday.

Estimating that costs of war, direct and indirect, today represent 82 per cent of present federal spending, Greenhalgh declared "if we could eliminate all government costs that have to do with war and all its aspects we probably would have a federal budget of between $8 and $10 billion dollars.

Greenhalgh is a member of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces faculty in Washington.

"It may sound crazy," the commander said, "but after a third World War it would be entirely possible that Russia would be added to the area needing relief."

"Such a situation would inevitably confront Congress with a decision to repudiate part of the public debt—it could easily run from $500 to $600 billion—or let the dollar find its normal level, and that could mean a nine or 10-cent dollar."

"The costs of an adequate national security program inevitably will be large. Without the most careful balancing of requirements against capacities, the prepared state could easily become the bankrupt state."

Maybe not exactly a knockdown fight, but each chain has scheduled what each describes as an "all-star two-hour production with all sorts of talent" for 4 to 6 next Thursday afternoon.

(Please Turn to Page 7) to see that Memorial to Lincoln before they left.

Estimated By All Races Lincoln is held in high esteem by all races, these which have had some taste of bondage with perhaps even more than by these which walk among the proud Easterners as well as the Western peoples revere his memory. About 10 years ago, the celebrated Christian leader of Japan, Kagawa, came to Gettysburg and was escorted to the places of interest by one of your distinguished citizens. When they neared the site of Lincoln's Address, Dr. Kagawa asked leave of his host for a short time and, dismounting from the car, walked over to the national monument. Here he stood silently in the rain, head bared, drinking in the experience of being where Lincoln had been during those memorable moments of human history. When he returned to the automobile, he asked that he not be shown any other sights or places. He wanted that to be his last recollection of Gettysburg.

The rapidly shifting geographical frontier, as Lincoln knew it a century ago, is gone. That American phenomenon that is so well illustrated by the Illinois legislature of Lincoln's Day which contained one hundred members, none of whom was born in the State of Illinois, will hardly be repeated. Nevertheless, the history of the United States continues to be essentially a record of rapid change. There are now and ever widening frontiers of human experience and human development.

Each, as it expands, leaves in its wake some wreckage or some residue of the old ways. That is progress and we have no wish to halt it, but we must for our own sake as well as that of generations to come, preserve a fair sampling of the landmarks of each age, as has been done here at Gettysburg.

A large assemblage stood here on that afternoon eighty-five years ago to hear the words of Edward Everett and of Abraham Lincoln. But that crowd may now be equalled on almost any pleasant summer afternoon. We applaud the fact that the public interest in this great historic place, and in others like it over the country, is growing rather than waning as the events which these historic places commemorate slip steadily back into the past. Nevertheless, we must face squarely the responsibility which is ours to preserve these areas that these people come to see, in a manner that is commensurate with their dignity and their importance.

New Problems Raised The automobile age, as the people of Gettysburg so well know, has transformed the American way of life. Citizens of progressive communities such as yours realize that the movement to preserve historic places must be adjusted to the modern trend, and that, in this case, science raises a new problem for every old one that it solves.

The presence of a National Shrine in the midst of a community entails a collective and an individual responsibility on the part of its citizens. It has not been, and never will be possible to place this entire battlefield in public ownership, as the borough itself was the scene of fighting. Therefore, the retention of the original appearance of the town will always be a private task. Practical business considerations and civic pride may well be combined in working toward this goal.

In this task I am sure that you will have the help and leadership of all the organizations which have contributed to the establishment and maintenance of interest in this great shrine. The Citizens Committee which worked so hard to make the visit of the Freedom Train to Gettysburg a success, is a fine example. The Sons of Union Veterans have cooperated for many years with the American Legion, the United Spanish War Veterans, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in making Memorial Day in Gettysburg one of the Nation's most solemn and impressive occasions. The Lincoln Fellowship of Pennsylvania and the Sons of Union Veterans are to be commended for having this day set aside as Dedication Day, and for observing it annually in an appropriate manner. The beautiful commemorative stamp which has just officially been issued by the Post Office Department, is response to a popular appeal from the American people, is an effective device in keeping alive our memory of one of the great moments of history.

Proud Heritage The National Park Service, which is a part of the Department of the Interior, has the function of preserving and holding in trust for the people of the United States, a number of great historic shrines such as the Gettysburg National Military Park and Cemetery. This agency preserves the physical remains for the benefit and enjoyment of the Nation, but these benefits can be realized to a maximum only by such cooperation as we see so splendidly exemplified here today.

The people of Gettysburg have every reason to be proud of the historic heritage that is theirs. They have every reason to guard it zealously. This battlefield and cemetery are more than a link with the past. They symbolize the challenge that Lincoln flung to the free people, not merely of this country, but, as we know it now, of the world. That challenge was a call to work for the rights of humanity. His House Divided warning can be applied to mankind.

Since Lincoln's Day, our youths have been sacrificed in the clash of conflicting ideologies in many far off lands. The autumn rains now fall on freshly dug graves at Gettysburg as they did in 1863. The scarred young bodies are brought back from queer sounding places like Kwajalein, Salerno, and Remagen. And now, after four score and five years ago, we come to the shrine at Gettysburg and pledge anew that high resolve of Lincoln's—These dead shall not have died in vain.

'OPEN HOUSE' AT (Continued From Page 1) used for recreation purposes. There are two shuffleboard courts and also ping pong tables. Two outside entrances, front and rear, give access to the community room without going through the bank's offices.

The kitchen is equipped with refrigerator, stove, steam tables and cupboards, and storage space which can be allotted to various organizations using the community room.

The remodeled bank is air-conditioned both winter and summer, and has germicidal lights to purify the air.

Founded 40 Years Ago The National Bank of Arendtsville was founded in 1908. L. H. Rice, father of John S. Rice, was president of the organizing board, and resigned to become the first cashier. He retired July 31, 1915. S. G. Bucher has been president of the bank since April 1, 1908. C. E. Taylor is the bank's vice president. Charles E. Raffensperger and Arthur Roberts served the bank as assistant cashiers, and were followed by W. A. Raffensperger. The present assistant cashier is D. C. Houck.

S. A. Skinner followed Mr. Rice as cashier, serving until June 30, 1942, when he was succeeded by the present cashier, Arnold E. Orner.

Three Original Directors Serve Three of the original board of directors are still members of the board, S. G. Bucher, Gettysburg R. 3, the president; Robert Shull, Cashtown, and G. F. Smith, Biglerville R. 1. Other members of the present board are W. A. Raffensperger, Arendtsville; G. A. Slaybaugh, Biglerville; C. E. Taylor, Biglerville R. 1. and M. Leroy Zeigler, Gettysburg R. 3.

Former members of the Board, now deceased, include S. A. Skinner, Dr. W. E. Wolff, Arthur Roberts, James C. Cole, William Oliver Andrew and the Rev. Dr. David T. Koser. Dr. Wolff and Mrs. Andrew were former vice presidents.

Emancipation

Northern factory worker was frequently considered as an expendable automaton, and was no less a slave than his plantation brother.

Traces Freedom's Growth Lincoln, the anointed keeper of the American dream, sought to emancipate all underprivileged groups. An assassin's bullet left his mission less than half accomplished. With his death, America's ordeal by fire drew to a close, only to be followed by a tragic era of false peace.

For decades after the martyrdom of the people's President the cause of freedom was a losing one. In the South all classes were so impoverished that the struggle for mere economic survival assumed paramount importance; little energy was left for the study of progressive government. In the North the age of "robber barons" was approaching its peak, with exploitation of the average American and his interests shamefully widespread.

It was not until the accession of Theodore Roosevelt to the Presidency that America's little people found some measure of relief from the oppression of the moneyed giants. The "trust-busting" of the earlier Roosevelt and Taft was followed by the "New Freedom" of Woodrow Wilson, which effected a number of important economic reforms.

Nation "Come of Age" The trend toward the full political and economic emergence of America's more or less submerged groups was arrested by the demoralizing aftermath of the first World War. Money was now worshipped as never before—by all strata of society; and lack of interest in crusades became painfully apparent.

The sobering reality of the depression at last made this nation come of age. The American people now began to realize that their general well-being was dependent upon their interest and participation in civic affairs, upon their effecting an equitable balance between the rights and privileges of capital and labor.

Under the second Roosevelt the "forgotten man" made his weight felt; the complete emancipation envisioned by Lincoln was nearing actuality.

Then, in the early years of World War II, it appeared that the dream of full freedom might prove utterly illusory. But once again the people of America were at one with Lincoln in resolving that this nation, under God, should ultimately have its "new birth of freedom," and that "government of the people, by the people, for the people, should not perish from the earth."

New World Seemed Near With the collapse of the Axis, the brave new world seemed at hand. Another, and equally formidable, totalitarian power, however, decreed otherwise. Despite Soviet intransigence, the United Nations, dedicating their labors in the spirit of Lincoln, have continued to assemble in the hope of enforcing right once more and preserving the happier aspects of civilization. Every call for the men of good will to arise and fight, for freedom from corruption within and oppression from without has been inspired by the sentiments enunciated by Lincoln here at Gettysburg many, many years ago.

It would not be presumptuous. I am sure, to assert that the shade of the Great Emancipator, nationalist that he was, would not be offended were the United Nations to succeed in effecting, although by the loss in some measure of National sovereignty, a durable organization for lasting peace and mutual freedom among the states of this currently

Report Change In Strikers' Demands

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—New rounds of talks in the east coast waterfront tieup today centered on a reported cut in the strikers' pay demands.

A source close to the negotiators said the AFL International Longshoremen's association has offered to settle the wage issue for a 25-cent hourly increase in regular, day-work pay.

This is only half the original demand for a 50-cent hourly boost. But there were scant indications the employers would accept the new figure.

Previously, the New York Shipping association, representing the employers, fixed a 10-cent hourly increase as their utmost "concession."

It was the dockworkers' rejection of this offer that 11 days ago touched off the strike that has paralyzed every major Atlantic port and tied up 217 foreign and American-flag vessels.

strife-torn globe. He would realize that for this nation to survive, the whole world must be kept in harmony.

That man of homely virtue and inexorable logic dedicated himself to the almost insuperable problems before him. Let us, then, his eternal debtors, pledge ourselves anew never to give up the fight—for our freedom and the freedom of all men everywhere.

Cabinet Shakeup Seen In Venezuela

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 20 (AP)—A cabinet shakeup in the near future was predicted today after a prolonged conference between army leaders and President Romulo Gallegos.

The President met with the army leaders at the presidential palace yesterday. A spokesman at the palace said, however, there was nothing to report and that no official statement was being prepared.

Information from various other sources indicated definite political developments could be expected this week-end.
